Castle Hall, February 18, 1878.

To the officers and members of Victoria Lodge No. 22, K. of H.

The undersigned committee, appointed to prepare resolutions in memory of our beloved and departed brother, John C. Bineger, beg leave to submit the following, viz:

Resolved, That in the death of Brother Bineger Victoria Lodge has lost a cherished member and the Order a worthy Knight, one who was true to its sacred principles and solemn truths.

Recolved, That we tender our deepest sympathy to his bereaved family in their unspeakable sorrow. Resolved, That we tender our deepest sympathy to his bereaved family in their unspeakable sorrow. Resolved, That we rejoice that he showed in his last hours the conscious presence of the Infinite Father, and died in the certain hope of an immortal life in another and infinitely glorious state of being, and, therefore, as true Knights, we may hope to meet him in the Lodge above, where sorrow and parting are no more.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon our records and a copy furnished the belowing family.

The district conference of the M. E. church is in session at Winchester with 100 ministers present. It will adjourn to-morrow. Sophia Branthly, the pauper of Fort Fulton who died in her miserable hovet of starvation, had $150 secreted on the premises. William B. Seward, of Bloomington, president of the state board of agriculture, who recently had his hand mangled by machinery, is in danger of lockjaw. The trial of Foxwell for the murder of White is progressing at Rushville, and the interest is unabated. The evidence seems very strong against the prisoner.

George Smith, charged with being an accomplice of John McDonald in the murder of Dank Snyder, last July, has been arrested at Mount Vernon and taken to Madison for trial. Mr. D. T. Hughes, who came near dying from landanum, at Morristown, the other night, denies that he attempted to commit suicide, but merely took an overdose of the medicine.

The Pope's Requiem.

St. John's Cathedral never held a larger audience than that assembled there this morning, at 10 o'clock, to attend the pontifical mass. The church was heavily draped in mourning, altar pictures, window frames and every projection being covered with solemn blsck. The celebrants were the Rt. Rev. Bishop McClosky, of Louisville, assisted by Revs. J. B. Chasse, of St. Mary's, Ernest Andran of Jeffersonville, and others. All the elergy of this city were present, with Fathers Schnell, of Columbus; Schenk, of Seymour; O'Donovan, of Brownsburg, and others from abroad. Father Fitzpatrick, of St. Patrick's church delivered an oration on the life and character of Pius IX and the events of his long pontificate; being followed by Father Shideler of St. Mary's, whomade a similar oration in German. The music of the occasion was noticeably fine, being peculiarly solemn and tender.

The two southern colonies, one for Little Rock and the other for Fort Worth, leave the union depot over the Vincennes road at 1 o'clock to-morrow night. The colonies number several hundred. Representatives of the press and others will accompany them to Cairo.

ADDITIONAL CITY NEWS.

THE GILMORE BAND CONCERT.

It is no exaggeration to say that there has never been an instrumental concert here that touched the popular chord so perfectly as that of Glimore's band at the grand opera house last evening. The program was carefully selected and every number called forth applause, which in nearly every case compelled a response. By common consent Lisat's Rhapsodie Hongroise was the most beautiful production of the evening, but the greatest enthusissm was evoked by some of the national and other grand airs which were produced with a vivid coloring and culmination of orcheaval effects which nearly raised the audience to their feet. This was particularly the case when the Anvil chorus and the Marsellaise were played. Some of the soloists deserve a special mention which can not be given in a notice of necessarily brief proportions. Mr. Lefever on the saxophone and Mr. Rrent on the cornet were particularly admired. Miss Fenderson sang two numbers and two encores. She has a lovely voice and high culture, and will be welcomed whenever she revisits Indianapolis. Tonight the second and last concert will be given with a variation in the program. Those who fail to attend will miss one of the finest concerts of the year.

The first invitation concert of the Choral Union takes place at the Baptist church to-night. The Union has recently received large accessions to its numbers, and in this concert the chorus will be much larger than at any of its previous public appearances. The rehearsal last night demonstrated the fact that although, on account of its rapid increase, the rehearsals have not been numerous enough to thoroughly harmonize all the elements, still the new director has succeeded remarkably well in putting them in a shape that will insure a fine rendition of the program selected. The instrumental parts will be given by the Lyra orchestra—an organization which for its numbers and opportunities need not be ashamed to play the same night with Gilmore's band—the grand organ of the Baptist church and the plano. As nearly all who have been invited will try to attend, an overflowing house will be a matter of course. THE CHORAL UNION.

Whatever other musical event may take place, that to which all lovers of music will look forward is the brief sesson of Italian opera, the box sheet for which is now open. The works to be given are Aida, Mignon and Faust, with Kellogg, Cary and Roze in the casts, a fine chorus and orchestra and all the roles competently filled. It is probably the only senson of opera that we shall have this year. The subscription sale of seats for the season begins at Benham's to-morrow morning, and that of single seats on Thursday morning. THE ITALIAN OPERA.

MORTON MONUMENTAL CONCERT. Next Friday evening a grand organ concert for the benefit of the Morton monumental fund will be given at Roberts Park church. "Washington's grand march" will be one of the pieces given. Prof. Clarke is one of the meet accomplished organists in the west, and will give an entertainment well worth attending.

It is understood that Mayor Caven will in a day or two order the discharge of all the prisoners in the county jail now serving out sentences for vagrancy. This will add somewhat to a class of population already sufficiently numerous, out in view of the Buskirk decision their further detention would be dangerous, as the imprisoned gentlemen might bring suit against the city for damages.

Supreme Court Decisions.

Cincinnati, Hamilton and Indianapolis railway company vs Frank M. Barilett—Fayette C. C. Reversed. Perkins, J.

A horse strayed upon the track of appellant's railread at the crossing of a highway. The horse ran along the track in front of an approaching train; he stumbled over a culvert and fell, but arose and continued to run along the track, but finally jumped a fence and disappeared. The ground was such that he could have left the track at any time. The train was at no time close to the horse. It slackened its speed, rang the bell and blew the whistle, but from some cause the horse sustained injury. Held, from these facts we can see no negligence whatever on the part of the railroad company. (56 Ind., 396.) Judgment leversed.

AUDITOR'S SALE—WHAT IS NACESSARY TO THE NEGLIGENCE.

George W. Arnold et al. vs. Thomas Gaff et al. Bartholomew C. C. Reversed. Niblack, J.
Held, Where land mortgaged to the state is sold by the auditor, the treasurer must attend such sale and make a statement thereof, which statement must be signed by the auditor of office it must be filed in the treasurer's office. Such recorded in the auditor's office it must be filed in the treasurer's office. Such record or a copy thereof, authenticated by the auditor or treasurer, is evidence of the matter contained therein. (1 R. S. 1876, p. 802, soc. 100.) A strict compliance with this provision of the statute is necessary to the validity of such sale. (15 Ind. 116; 21 Ind. 421; 29 Ind. 1.) The entry of the deeds for the land sold in the record of the board of county commissioners is a condition precedent to county commissioners is a condition precedent to the delivery of such deeds. (1 R. S. 1876, p. 802, sec. 99.) Judgment reversed.

COMMON CARRIER-EXTENT OF ITS LIABILITY. Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis railway com-

Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis railway company vs. Richard Morton et al. Tippecanoe C. C. Reversed. Biddle, C. J.
Held, The implied obligation of a common carrier, arising from his relation to the public, is limited by the termini of his own route. Such carrier is not bound by his general public obligation to provide other means of transportation than such as he owns, uses, or holds out to the public on his own route for that purpose. (1 Watts & S., 285; 40 Mo., 491; 18 Ill., 488; 64 Ill., 428; 19 Barb., 35; 28 Indiana, 441; Angell on Carriers, sections 25, 26; 109 Eng. C. L. 680; 116 Eng. C. L. 66; 20 Wis., 624; 2 Red. on railways, 142.) The evidence in this case shows that the appellant held itself out to the public as a common carrier of goods between the termini of its route, namely, from Chicago to Pittsburg. The cars of appellant did not and could not pass east of Pittsburg, which fact was known to the appellees; it was also known to the appellees that the appellant did not and could not pass east of Pittsburg, only as they were furnished to it by their owners for the purpose of through transportation. There was no implied obligation against the appellant to furnish to the appellees through cars unless they could be had from the eastern companies. Judgment roversed.

SPECIAL FINDING-REMITTITUR-DEPOSITIONS.

SPECIAL FINDING—REMITTITUR—DEPOSITIONS,
Michael Murray vs. Henry Phillips. Kosciusko
C. C. Affirmed. Howk, J.
Held: (1.) A special finding of facts controls a general verdict only when such special finding is inconsistent with the general verdict. (2 R. S.
1876, 172, sec. 337, 42 Ind., 157; 49 Ind., 482; Hollingsworth vs. Trueblood, at this term.) (2.) If the jury trying a cause assess the plaintiff's damages at a sum in excess of the amount due, it is not error in the court to allow such plaintiff to enter a remittitur for such excess. (1 Blackf. 59; Id. 296.)
(3.) When depositions are taken in term by the agreement of the parties, the appellant can pot afterwards object that no legal notice was given of the time and place of taking such depositions. (4.)
It is not necessary that the officer taking the depositions should write the questions. It is proper for the party or his attorney to write the questions. (50 Ind. 429.) Judgment affirmed.

WILL—UNSQUND MIND—INSTRUCTION.

WILL—UNSOUND MIND—INSTRUCTION.

Howard Lowder et al. vs. Linden Lowder et al. Lawrence C. C. Affirmed. Worden, J.

This action was brought to set aside a will on the ground that the testator was not of sound mind. Held. (1) In order that the contents of a former will of the testator may be admissible as evidence to prove unsoundness of mind, it must be shown that the contents of such will would have had a tendency to show such unsoundness of mind. In the absence of any statement to this effect, we can not hold that the lower court erred in rejecting such evidence. (64 Ind., 516; 55 Ind., 239; Id., 461.) (2) Where an instruction in substance states to the jury that they are at liberty to consider the distinction, classification and particular phases of unsoundness of mind, so far as might aid them in determining the question involved, it is not open to the objection that it "discredits and withdraws from the jury all testimony as to the classification of mental diseases." (3) An instruction which held "that the mind may be sound and the memory impaired," is not erroneous. (I Red. on Wills, 98, 99; Pl. 9, note 11) Such an instruction is warranted and sustained by general experience. The evidence is such that we can not disturb the verdict upon it. Judgment affirmed.

THE SILVER BILL.

The President will Certainly Veto it.

[Washington special.].

The silver bill will not be sent to the president for his signature this week. Its supporters in the house of representatives are by no means pleased with the shape in which the senate amendments have left the measure, and are greatly divided in sentiments as to the best course to be pursued with it.

it.

If there had been any doubt as to the attitude of the president, there can be none now. An Ohio gentleman who had a conversation with him upon the subject reports that the president will most certainly veto the bill. The grounds which the president assigned as the basis of his veto were that in his opinion the bill was, first, an injury to the public credit, second, a breach of public faith, and third it was unconstitutional, in that it interferes with vested rights, and is a violation of contracts. Upon the latter point the president stated that he was not entirely clear.

About the Proposed Peace Congress.

Vienna, February 19.—Prince Anersberg, presidented the Austrian council of ministers, in reply to an interpellation in the lower house of the retchsrath to-day, said: "The government, on being informed of the preliminaries of peace, frankly stated its postulon regarding them, declaring it could not consider as binding any arrangement between the belligerents affecting the interests of this monarchy or the rights of the signatories of the treaty of Paris, as long as such arrangements were not agreed to by the powers. At the same time the government took the initiatory in favor of the European conference. The standpoint of the government regarding a peace basis and its proposal for the assembly of the conference were accepted by all the cabinets. Russia declared in favor of a congress and not a conference, and that it should not meet in the capital of any signitory state. Negotiations, on this subject are approaching a conclusion. We expect an early meeting of congress, consequently the government is not in a position to make a detailed statement of its views. It is bound, however, to declare generally that it can not regard some of the peace stipulations as consonant with the interests of the monarchy; as the reservation of the condition of the christians, and such provisions as might involve the attention of the balance of power in the east to the detriment of Austria. The government confidently hopes the European council will reach an understanding and solution satisfactory to all. In any case the government in the present grave circumstances will consider it its duty and mission to secure due recognition of political and national interests and dignity of the monarchy. Bismarck on the Situation:

Bismarck on the Situation:

Berlin, February 19.—In the reichstag to-day in response to the interpellation of Bennigsin, Eismarck stated he had little practically new to tell. He then discussed the separate provisions of the preliminaries of peace and showed that Germany's interests are not-affected in such a manner as to oblige her to deviate from her previous attitude. He described the apprehensions respecting the Dardanelles as not justified by the actual situation. Regarding the position to be taken by Germany, he said he could not now give any official information, as the documents only came into his possession to-day. He did not believe in a European war, as the powers who had opposed Russia would have to assume the responsibility of the legacy left by Turkey. Germany was for hastening the assembling of the conference which perhaps will meet within the first fortnight of March. He rejected emphatically all sugostions that Germany should intervene, and declared she was willingly honorably to mediate, but did not wish to exercise the office of arbiter of Europe.

English Comment on the Silver Bill. English Comment on the Silver Bill.

LONDON, February 19.—The Times says United States funds have surprised many people by advancing instead of falling on the news that the silver bill had passed, in a manner that will insure its becoming a law in much its present shape. We have always said the public was not selling the stock to any appreciable extent, and the weakness which has now and then characterized the bonds, was due as much as anything to the passing fears of dealers and to speculative selling, which only made the market harder. Hence, on the receipt of a letter from New York, as the worst was now knows, the market naturally rose by the mere efforts of those who had sold to buy back. Besides it has been noticed that the limitation put upon the quantity of silver that may be cefined within a given time is itself tantamount to making silver a subsidary coinage, at all events for some considerable time, so that there is little alarm felt and holders stick to their bonds. The only thing that will lower prices of these, or any other high class stock just now, is dearer money.

Washington, February 19.—Representative Ellis states that in a protracted interview with President Hayes last night he received assurance that the administration had never contemplated interference by the United States courts or otherwise with the action of the courts or state government of Louislana, and that while the president regretted the prosecution of Anderson and Wells, it would not alter his course toward the state or people of Louislana. It was a matter which involved their honor and he trusted their honor. Fills also stated he informed the president of the condition of affairs in Louislana and corrected what he (Ellis) considered the errors and misstatements of Secretary Sherman and others in regard to the returning board trials. A Thirty Days' Row Wanted. [Washington special to Cincinnati Gazette.]

Some of the radical republicans are evidently making preparations for a break with the administration. One of them stated to-day that nothing could benefit the party more than a row for thirty days. THE DAILY NEWS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1878.

THE Journal dislikes being called a flopper. Then it should not flop.

THE Journal is waiting to see what President Haves does with silver bill, before it flops again.

CONGRESSMAN JOHN HANNA says the president would not "dare" veto the silver bill. It should not be understood from this that Mr. Hanna wants to be ugly. That is his gentlest manner of persuasion.

THE silver bill has gone to the banking. and currency committee in the house Ewing and two or three like him constitute a majority of this committee, and it is not improbable they may report for a rejection of the senate amendments.

A WASHINGTON dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette says:

There were some scenes during the protracted night session from which senators might well wish the press would not lift the veil. There was more conspicuous drunkenness upon the floor of the senate than has been witnessed for many years, and it was not confined to one political party.

THE Springfield Republican attributes the Louisiana trouble to the positive necessity of the half foreign mercurial temperament of New Orleans, which demands a theatrical state of affairs in politics every once in awhile, after the manner of the French. There is a good deal of philosophy in that explanation.

Ex-Gov. HENDRICKS has a splendid chance to redeem himself. . If he will go into the convention to-morrow and combat the soft money heresy, he will not only find a hearty following, but will regain the confidence of the party. The soft money wing will rage of course, but in two years that will be forgotten. A better opportunity a hold man never had But Mr Hendricks is not a bold man.

The Journal on resumption.

January 16. February 11.

To repeal the law The repeal of the now would be an act of resumption act, or weakness, of folly, and extension of the time bad faith. Gold is fixed for resumption, bad faith. Gold is fixed for resumption lower now than it has therefore, becomes a been at any period since necessity, and the the war, and it would sooner it is done the be supreme folly as better.
well as bad faith for the government to change its policy and turn its back on re-sumption when the difficulties of the way have been so nearly

THE Terre Haute Express in estimating the effects of the silver bill, says that the price of silver will not be increased much; that greenbacks will sink to the level of silver; that gold will be exported and "it is not likely that one person in a hundred will again see an American gold coin;" that paper will be the chief money because of the bulkiness of silver; that trade will not be improved and that people will "set about to improve and perfect a system of paper money," which means inflation of irredeemable issues. The hard money men who have advocated the Bland bill, can now see that in the opinion of the ablest greenback paper in the country we have made a long step toward inflation and repudiation.

The spring following the change in the roprietorship of the Journal the republicans proprietorship of the Journal the republicans carried the city by a very large majority, and the Journal was the first to advance the letting of the city printing to the lowest bid-der.—[Journal.

Five years before this The News advocated this contracting for work; two year before this it was done at the instance of The News, and a little later the German printing steal was abolished. The News has saved the city thousands of dollars in printing alone, by enforcing fair business competition in the work. It was accomplished long before the Journal ever had a word to sav in its favor. The city advertising which used to cost from $15,000 to $20,000 a year now costs less than $1,000, and the result is due to the unflagging attacks made by "Newspaper Controversies."

The Journal pleads the baby act, begs the question and equivocates to the extent of a column and a half this morning. The article is intended to be a personal explanation for the benefit of the proprietor who, with that obliqueness of vision which always accompanies overweening vanity, can not divorce "self" from anything with which it is connected. In this case he industriously attempts to show that he had nothing to do with anything. We didn't suppose he had and therefore take no notice of his allusion to the "nicknames" which he says the papers of the city have decorated him with, nor the self_ certified announcement that "the best class of citizens of all shades of political opinion" have fully approved his course. This can not mean the course of the paper, for its financial floppings have excited the disgust and contempt of the whole state; its disquisitions on foreign politics, have been the laughing stock of every body who has read them; and on domestic politics it has no views at all. We are therefore driven to understand that the course which "the better class of citizens of all shades of political opinion" have approved is the personal course of proprietor in reference to he cuttingly terms the "nicknames and cheap low wit" of the papers of the city at his expense. seems to think that there has been a tremendous storm of persecution and he has bared his bulging brow to the blast, fancying that his martyrdom was winning the silent adoration of numberless households and the glorious encouragement of "the better class of citizens of all shades of political opinion." It's a harmless mania and we leave him to nurse it.

Concerning the supreme court controversy of this paper the Journal asserted that its "proprietor" knew nothing of the cause of the court's action. This The News acknowledged might be true. We could readily believe the proprietor knows nothing or next to nothing about the conduct of his paper. But the supreme court reporter of the paper knows, and the forced hilarity of the allusion to his "jocular remarks," now sounds more like graveyard whistling than anything else.

As to the matter of circulation the Journal went out of its way, in commenting on The News's supreme court difficulty, to say that it was an "advertising scheme" on the part of this paper and followed this remark with what the proprietor might term some "cheap low wit," about the circulation of The News, intimating that it was mispepresented and that we were perpetrating a fraud. The News had not mentioned the subject. The Journal began it although it now tries to sneak out of it.

The question being forced upon us we suggested that it be tested in any manner that would be fair, and added:

Now, while The News is on the subject of circulation, we desire to charge in the most explicit manner that the Journal is practicing a most gigantic fraud upon its advertisers and all concerned in the matter of cir-culation, and has obtained a credit in Rowell's Newspaper Directory for more than double the number of copies which it actual-ly prints or has printed for a year. Worse than that, the editor of the Directory says the credit was obtained upon sworn state-ments made by the publisher of the Journal. The News makes the charge openly, and the Journal dare not challenge the proof and submit itself to the test submit itself to the test.

The Journal, after trying to ignore this statement, now prefaces its explanation with the remark that the public is not inerested in such a controversy. But it can not dismiss it in any such lofty manner. The public is interested, vitally interested. The general public is interested in knowing if a paper professing great morality and claiming to be a leader and educator of the people, conducts its business honestly or dishonestly, truthfully or untruthfully, If a newspaper obtains money for advertising upon a representation that it has double the circulation it has, it is practicing a swindle as much as the coal merchant who would take the money for two tons of coal and deliver but one. And any advertiser who will take his case into the courts upon such a state of facts would surely obtain a set-off corresponding with the difference between the circulation claimed and the bona fide issue. Now the simple statement by The News was that the Journal is receiving credit in Rowell's Directory for double its actual circulation. The proprietor again pleads the baby act. He did not make any statement, a clerk did it-for which of course he is not responsible! He (the clerk) don't remember whether the figures were sworn to or not, but at any rate they were correct. This, however, was in October, 1876. Rowell's last directory was issued in January, 1878, and the advertising public understands that the statements of circulation are made for every issue of the work, and that they represent the present actual circulation. That directory says the Journal has a circulation of 12,936, and the editor of the directory says the statement was sworn to. The report in the directory professes to give the average daily circution of the Journal. It is put there to catch advertisers. It is possible that on one day or a number of days during the politcal campaign the Journal may have reached the figures it gives as its circulation, but its circulation to-day, its average circulation during the past year, is not half of the amount given to the Directory, and we hold this up to the people that they may see the pitiful subterfuge by which the Journal has endeavored to obtain business and reputation. Taking its own admissions it has been practicing a fraud and soliciting business under false pretenses. It has represented that it now has the circulation it had in 1876. As a matter of fact it never had any such circulation, any more than The News had 17,000 circulation because it sold that many copies the day after the presidential election.

The tail end of its article, in which it asserts that the weight of the Journals sent through the postoffice is ten times or ten hundred times, or some such matter, heavier than that of The News, is the most pitiful case of begging the question we ver saw, while the allusion to the fact that the Journal receives several hundred more registered letters than The News does is crushing beyond rejoinder. Why don't it bring up its pay rolls and show that it employs more men than The News, or get a yardstick and demonstrate that Journal is a bigger paper than The News. These be quite as relevant, Not one fortieth part of the circulation of The News goes through the post office. It is sent by railroad and does not go near the post office. The Journal can make a fine showing of weight, for it weighs twice as much as The News to begin with, and it has a large weekly circulation. But this sort of test is trivial. We make no concealment about our circulation. It is a comfortable one, it don't bother us half as much as it does other people. We think it is the largest in the state by considerable, and if it is not we are perfectly willing to have it known. We renew the offer to the Journal to test the question in any fair way. Let the Journal name a man, The News a man, the two a third, who shall examine the circulations for one month. three months, a year, to whom all facts and papers shall be submitted, and who will get at the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

Of a certain eastern ex-governor, a pleasant story is related. Once upon a time he visited Worcester, and called upon an acquaintance who owned many fine pictures. The ex-governor went about the room examing these until he came to a painting of the Madonna hanging above the mantel. He peered up through his eye-glass, "And who—er—is this?" he asked. "That," said his acquaintance, "is a Madonna." "Ah," said the exgovernor, blandly, "is she a Worcester lady?"

The Supreme Court's Discrimination.

[Terre Haute Gazette.] The supreme court of Indiana has acted in a very unfair and absurd manner toward the Indianapolis Evening News in the matter of withholding its decisions until too late for withholding its decisions until too late for publication in that paper. All the indications point to the fact that it adopted a rule for no other purpose than to injure The News. But Lord bless their dear souls, The News will outlive them, and cast brambles on their graves. The best thing they can do is to rescind the rule adopted by them, and not attempt to interfere in the newspaper business. If it proposes to discriminate, it had better do it in favor of The News, which is head and it in favor of The News, which is head and shoulders above all other Indianapolis con-temporaries in the matter of ability and hon-

The Effects of Hard Times.

I could write you of many impressive in-stances of reverses of fortune that have befallen in Boston, were it not that they would be readily recognized, and are of too private a nature to justify parade in print. We have assed through an experience never to be orgotten. Young men have grown old under . Old men have died from its effects. There are deaths constantly occurring here attrib-uted to heart disease, or one of the other chronic complaints, of which the more accu-rate definition would be. "Died of the hard times." The basis of the proposal to. have at the Paris exhibition an American kitchen, to Paris exhibition an American kitchen, to cook Indian corn in diverse ways calculated cook Indian corn in diverse ways to afford a new sensation to the Parisian palate, was not at first sight very clear. I when it is remembered that Indian corn almost unknown as an article of food in Europe, that the crop in the United States was 760,950,000 bushels valued at the lowest estimate at $380,000,000, and that of this quantity only 38,540,000 bushels were exported, bringing in $23,794,000, there will be seen in this apparently trifling project a capital adver-tisement that may result in a very good busi-

Comparison of Debts and Revenue. [New York World.] The British debt is but a little less than twice as large as ours; and yet, while it cost England in 1877 a little less than £27,-000,000 to manage and pay interest on her debt, Secretary Sherman asks for more than £18,000,000 to pay the interest on our debt for the next year. Making a Piute Doctor.

[Nevada paper.] It has been a question unsolved by many skins. We have of late heard of several executions for inability to bring about a cure among the Piutes, and now we have the particulars at hand how they elect a successor in case of the death of a medicine man or wo-man. All the adult members of the tribe are called together; a white round stone is pro-vided for each and all except one, and that is a black one; these are put in a sack together and passed around, each hand drawing out a and passed around, each hand drawing out a pebble. The one drawing the black stone is thereafter to act as a medicine man or woman, as the case may be, for women and men must take their chance of drawing. The doctor elect must then, qualify himself the best he can the more the better—for he will have a larger leave of like because the have a longer lease of life; because, on the death of his third patient, he is put to death in a summary manner, sometimes shot, again stoned to death, and at others burned.

An Emergency Existing. The supreme court having established the precedent, it is now proposed to have rules adopted in the federal, state and city courts adopted in the federal, state and city courts directing that no business shall be transacted until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Then no suits can be filed before that time and no cases disposed of, the clerk pigeon-holing all documents. It is also suggested that the public officers decline to perform any work before 2 o'clock that there he no schools before 2 o'clock, that there be no schools in the forenoon, that trains cease running, and that the chief of police order his men to make no arrests until 2 o'clock. This is the only way the people can hope to avoid discriminating against the morning papers in favor of The News. There seems to be an emergency calling for the immediate adop-tion of the measures indicated.

INTERVIEW WITH A TOURIST.

The Stove-lid Currency in Mexico-Silver Twenty per cent. off in New Orleans-A

George C. Harding, editor of the Saturday Herald, and Edward L. Palmer have just returned from a trip to the Mexican republic. A News reporter had a conversation with the former tourist this morning and finds him stocked with a new invoice of health and a large and varied ascortment of ideas, based upon extantourist this morning and finds him stocked with a new invoice of health and a large and varied assortment of ideas based upon extensive and searching observation. He described his journey from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico by rail as being especially pleasant. The Mexican railroads seem to brun for the convenience of the diletantti. The trains are never in a hurry. When a stop is made at a station it is always a full stop, allowing from 30 minutes to an hour to see the sights and accumulate sustenance. The management is in the hands of Englishmen, the engineers being Americans and English, with Mexican conductors and brakemen. The coaches are built upon the English compartment plan. Mr. Harding related a little incident that happened upon the train in which a New Yorker-figured as the hero. This traveler was accompanied by his wife and two or three children. The lady was nervous almost to the verge of lunacy from a fear of yellow fever and cut-throats. One of the railroad officials at Vera Cruz wishing to make the party as comfortable as possible had them put into the first-class compartment of a coach at that city and gave the Mexican brackers at the them. coach at that city and gave the Mexican coach at that city and gave the Mexican brakeman strictly in charge to see that they wanted for nothing. The brakeman alive to his duty after the train was well under way, stealthily opened the door and looked in. Then he closed the door again. Soon after he looked in upon his charge agan. This was repeated again and again until the lady, nearly crazy with terror, gave a terrific shrick and her husband went for that brakeman then and there, shaking him until his man then and there, shaking him until his sallow hue changed to a death-like purple. The man of the wheel succeeded in making his escape from the infuriated New Yorker, who summoned the conductor, informing him that a brigand was on the train. The brakemen. The brakemen. The brakemen. The brakemen were mustered—the guilty party pointed out—an explanation in the greaser vernacular followed. The New Yorker was told of the arrangement made at Vera Cruz, and overcame with remorse slipped a doubloon into the hand of the half strangled brakeman. The apology was considered ample.

At New Orleans, previous to sailing for bi-metallic Mexico, Mr. Harding transmuted his greenbacks into gold, paying two per cent.
for the exchange. On arriving at Vera Cruz, he went to a bank to trade some of the yellow metal for the Mexican dollar of the daddies.
Here the banker candidly told him he could only allow him 10 per cent, for his gold, but that some of the cambling houses would do. only allow him 10 per cent. for his gold, but that some of the gambling houses would do better—probably a fare banker could be found who would give him $1.15 in silver for each golden dellar. Silver is a great nuisance in Mexico. In the capital of the republic, a city of about 300,000 inhabitants, it is a usual sight to see a stout spined Indian, a fellow that can trot all day with 800 or 1,000 pounds weight on his shoulders, with a load of argentiferous dollars on his back, following a merchant. From time to time the merchant will stop to disburse the metal, counting out a few pounds of the silver in some business transaction, then tying up the sack reloads his Indian then tying up the sack reloads his Indian and marches off to make other payments. Mr. Harding told of a friend of his who at New Orleans bought a draft on Veta Cruz for $500. When he presented his credentials at the Mexican bank he was horrer-stricken to find the amount counted out to him in silver dollars—nearly 50 pounds weight. He protested that he wanted gold—that it was so nominated in the bond. The banker, with his elongated saddle-colored digit, pointed out the unlucky words, "payable in coin," and the unhappy American shouldered his burder and decented.

out the univery worus, payant and the unhappy American shouldered his burden and departed. Silver is also becoming a great nuisance in New Orleans, owing to the large influx of that metal from Mexico, and the stove lid currency is discounted by trades men 20 per cent. To show the disfavor into which it is a sad fact that even saloon keepfallen, it is a sad fact that even saloon keepers, whose liquid commodities afford a larger profit than pertains to any other class of merchandise, also insist on the 20 per cent, shave,

City Council.

The city council met last night. The council and aldermanic committees on parks reported that they had conferred with the county commissioners in regard the proposed erection of a workhouse by the county and city jointly. The commissioners were favorable to the project, but as under the present laws criminals could not be worked to any laws criminals could not be worked to any advantage it was deemed advisable to do nothing until state legislation can be had. The city commissioners reported that they had examined the assessment of benefits and damages on account of the vacating of Wabash and Market streets and Huron alley between Mississippi and Tennessee streets and consider that no damage will be done to property owners.

A communication was received from the quartermaster-general stating that he had discovered two bonds given by the city, one dated May 27, 1870 for $4,200, on which 120 dated May 27, 1870 for $4,200, on which 120 Springfield rifles and accoutrements were drawn for Co. A, Indianapolis national guards, John L. Hanna, captain, and one dated September 20, 1871, for $3,200, on which 160 Springfield rifles were drawn for the Indianapolis business college company. The companies have distanted and the arms have not been returned. It is demanded that they be returned or their value paid into the state treasury. A part of the arms are said to be stored in R. S. Foster & Co.'s warehouse, the remainder were burned in the house, the remainder were burned in the

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News:

I do not think that your answer to my note a paralel case. You speak in The News of Saturday's issue of Senator Lamar's manly stand on his convictions. Was he not sent to the senate of the United States by the people of Mississippi, and did not the legislature of that state instruct him to vote for the silver bill? Is he in the United States senate to represent himself or the people that sent him. If he could not follow their instructions, would it not have been more "manly" for him to have resigned. Senator McDonald knew the wishes of his constituents and therefore represented them as they wished. I believe that when a senator receives positive instructions as in the case of Senator Lamar that he ought to follow those instructions or resign in favor of some one that will. That is my business view of the matter.

BEFORE THE CONVENTION.

The Trouble and Turmoil Over a Few Offices.

Hot Work Between the Candidates --Knifing Each Other and Breaking Slates.

The trains last night and this morning brought in hordes of delegates from all parts of the states snu to-day the hotels present ah exceedingly lively appearance. The candidates and their friends are very much excited and for some of the offices the race has degenerated into a personal fight. This is notable in the struggle for nomination to the office of secretary and treasurer of state. Last night Cravens of Madison was ahead for the position must named, and the tide seemed to be swelling in his favor. The predictions of the prophet of The News touching the decadence of David Gooding's chances are being varefied in many ways, and the sensible delegate evinces a delicacy about touching him that bodes the Hancock statesman no good. Maybe the prophet is off in his guess but nevertheless he hazards the prediction that David will be distanced on the last quarter. He is making a good deal more noise than his real strength warrants. Shanklin of Evansville, is developing unexpected strength and is rubbing along after Cravens in a manner which the latter must despise. Shanklin is making Irlends every minute and by raising an earnest cry of rings and combinations, he is really cutting into Craven's strength to such an extent that the Madison aspirant has taken to hitting back. In the vicious fight between these two men the choice will be likely to fall upon a compromise candidate, in which event Senator Peed, of Martin, and Will. A. Peele, of Randolph, stand a very good show. The latter in particular is showing up in a manner quite gratifying to his friends, and on the very first ballot will poll a handsome vote.

THROAT CUTTING IN SOLEMN EARNESI.

THROAT CUTTING IN SOLEMN EARNEST.

More right down ugliness is concentrated in the race for treasurer than for all the other offices combined. Shannon, Cooper and Fleming are knifing each other in dead earnest, and mutually charging underhand work and trickery. The Cooper men are intensely indignant at the attempt made by the Shannon crowd to split the Marion delegation by capturing the fifth, ward delegates, through the agency of his Hibernian associations. They have accordingly raised the cry that Shannon is running on his Irish-Catholic strength. The Shannonites retailate by charging Cooper with entering into divers combinations and awapping indiscrim-THROAT CUTTING IN SOLEMN EARNEST. have accordingly raised the cry that Shannon is running on his Irish-Catholic strength. The Shannonites retaliate by charging Cooper with entering into divers combinations and swapping indiscriminately. Between Cooper and Fleming the throat cutting is even more bitter than between Cooper and Shannon. By some process of reasoning, the Fort Wayne man and his friends attribute the paragraph in The News yesterday touching Fleming's hard money weakness to intentional malice on the part of a rival candidate, and they hasten to explain that during the period of the Fort Wayne Sentinel's hard money advocacy Fleming did not control the utterances of the baper, holding but $4,000 of the $35,000 capital stock of the concern; that 18 months ago he came into possess of the office by virtue of a sheriff's certificate, and that recently the Sentinel has been a silver and anti-resumption organ. However this may be, Flemings having some difficulty in drawing the line to the entire satisfaction of the inflation delegates. The ruction between the Fleming and Smart factions is growing uglier, and will be likely to damage the claims of both, though to what extent can only be surmised. The impression is very general that one or the other must be killed off, and as both have powerful lobbies, the effect may he imagined. Unless the doughty trio of would be treasurers cools off before morning it is not improbable that all three will be laid on the shelf. The contest will then narrow down to John S. Williams and Edgar Henderson, with the chances in favor of the latter. The situation is becoming more mixed every hour for the treasurership. At the precent-writing it is nip and tuck between Fleming and Cooper, with odds rather against the Fort Wayne man.

A great many small fry candidates for superintendent of public instruction are springing up and working for Fleming as against Smart, but their influence as yet is, not perceptible. It would be rank folly to even guess who would receive the momination for attorney general, as that dopends

THE COLD WATER ELEMENT.

It is noticeable that a better class of men are at the front and taking part in democratic politics than is usual at state conventions of either party. This is accounted for by the fact that they have been in the background in past years, but now that the party is the ranking political power in the state they propose to have a hand in running things. The bottle is not as preminent a feature at the headquarters of the candidates to-day as it was yesterday. This is doubtless in deference to a number of gentlemen, who, though strong partisans and heavy tollars for their choice for the various offices, are pronounced temperance men and are decorated with the red and blue ribbon misignia of the cold water cause. Liquor is on hand, to be sure, but the drinking is not done so openly.

The bottle is now kept under the bed or the bureau, and the drinking is accomplished behind a door secure from observation. One of the candidates, who ordered his bottle of wrath removed from the room altogether, was impelled to do so by the crowd of bummers that had been attracted to his headquarters. He said he had no idea "there were so many blanked hackmen in the city."

his headquarters. He said he had no idea "there were so many blanked hackmen in thecity."

CONVENTION NOTES.

Senator Voorhees has discreetly discovered that important business will detain him in Washington and deprive him of the exquisite. pleasure of taking part in the state convention. This is a good thing for Daniel. The fight now going on its a good thing to keep out of.

The Marion county delegation met in the criminal court room this morning, elected Hon. David Turple permaneut chairman, suggested Franklin Landers as the district member of the committee on resolutions, and adopted a resolution to vote the delegation as a unit for John J. Cooper so long as he is in the race, and declining to go into the convention pledged for any other man.

James B. Ryan, muttering his wayward fancies, still lingers about the corridors of the Bates house. It is said that his candidacy is a cover for skillful work in the interest of some other candidate. Some say he is for Fleming, others that his gigantic efforts are exercised for Shannan.

What the financial platform will be no one seems exactly to know, as that issue is to a great extent settled and out of the way. As both parties are running along paraulel on the chief questions of state and national importance, it has been suggested that the platform be condensed into the single word "office." That seems to be the only point of difference now.

In the fifth ward the Cooper and Shannon men came together, and as a result the meeting ended in a row. The convention was organized after considerable trouble by the election of Dick Hollywood chairman. About 150 voters were in the room, and when it came to counting the ballots on the vote for delegates the number was found to be not less than 600. There was a Milesian yell, and Hon. Hollywood declared that the vote was null and void and that another meeting would be held at Sindlinger's butcher shop this evening to settle the matter. As will be observed, the primary conventions were held according to the old ward boundaries, the representation making this necessary. All the delegates were instructed for Cooper and in the main they are antagonist to Gooding. John M. Lord and Frank Trissal do not feel encouraged by the result, though one delegate was instructed for the latter. Warren township justructed for Gooding.
